Mrs. Higby:

An elderly gentleman stopped by this morning and talked to Capt. Earp, Shirley Tockes, and Harry Lawrence about giving this old photo to the Mint for their archives. His father is the gentleman on the right, Farnum St. John, who started to work at the Mint in 1906 as a clerk in M&R (@ $1,400 a year), was reclassified in 1924 as a clerical administrator, and in 1940 was promoted to Assistant Accountant and Auditor; he retired Oct. 1, 1941.

This picture had to be taken prior to 1908 as the lady in the photo, Miss Caidy, retired on March 14, 1908, after entering employment in 1906.

April 14, 1945. Washington D.C.

NEW DOLLAR COIN DESIGN -- The new dollar coin authorized by Congress will bear a likeness of the noted suffragist Susan B. Anthony on the obverse. The reverse will carry the design emblematic of the symbolic eagle of Apollo 11 landing on the moon. Frank Gasparro, the Mint's Chief Sculptor and Engraver, executed both the obverse and reverse designs shown on the attached picture of the galvanos of the new dollar coin. The cupro-nickel clad coin will measure 1.043 inches in diameter (26.5 millimeters) and weigh 8.1 grams. The 11-sided inner border on both sides of the coin will make the new dollar coin readily distinguishable from the quarter by touch as well as sight.
